Wax Museum Project 2018

Coleman A. Young students will be working on a long term project that will require preparation inside the classroom, as well as at home. First, the students will choose an historically significant African-American figure they would like to research, and obtain teacher approval. Then they will have to do research at home, and if possible, at school. They will be required to prepare a one paragraph report, a 1-2 minute speech, and will be asked to dress up as their significant figure. The historical figure they choose must come from the following theme:
Slavery (boys) and Educators (girls) (see ideas on the back of this page)

In February, we will organize a wax museum display at the school. The students will be required to dress as the person they researched. They will become statues of wax and come to life when an imaginary button is activated. They will be required to give a short speech, approximately 1-2 minutes, about the life of their person.

The following is the rubric for the overall grade of the research project. The overall grade will be counted as three grades. One grade for each of the 3 following subjects: Reading, Writing, and Social Studies. THIS PROJECT IS REQUIRED!

Wax Museum Overall Research Project Rubric

This project will count as three grades: Writing, Reading, and Social Studies!!!!

Requirement	Points
